EDITORIAL

With the bountiful blessings of the Almighty our college has pitched on the path of progress.

Live to the fullest

Love to the fullest

Express from your heart.

The purpose of education is said to be achieved when an individual is at one's creative best and expressive to the hilt. The Annual Magazine for the year 2020-21 has provided a platform for the students to exhibit their potentials. The wide spectrum of articles gives us a sense of pride as they reflect the creative potential and talent of our students. Apart from academics our young and energetic tutees have gleamed in co-curricular, extracurricular activities such as NCC, NSS, YRC, RRC and in various other clubs. We thank our madam secretary Thirumathi. N. Sendamaraai Avl, for her concern and permission towards all the activities of our college and Dean Dr. V. R. Parameswari Avl, for her kind advices and support in all our endeavours.

Our Madam Principal, the guiding force, the indomitable spirit has been a source of inspiration and we extend our heartfelt thanks to her.

We applaud the contributors for their overwhelming response, stimulated thought and varied ideas in articles.

Our special thanks to the Teaching and Non-Teaching faculty members beloved and ever enthusiastic students and the Editorial Board. We extend our hearty wishes to the outgoing students to reach the height and summit of new horizon.

A message to my dear students:

"Do what you can, with all you have, wherever you are"

Don't get upset with people or situations; both are powerless without your reaction.

Arise, awake & stop not till the goal is reached.

WORLD SACRED SPIRITUAL FESTIVAL

(JODHPUR INDIA)

You're unlikely to find a more stunning setting for a music festival than the ancient Mehrangarh fort in Jodhpur, in the Indian state of Rajasthan.

Built around 1460 and located on a hill 410 feet above the city, the massive fort (one of India's largest) includes an impressive museum and several palaces renowned for their intricate carvings and expansive courtyards.

At the base of this extraordinary monument is where you'll find the World Sacred Spirit Festival, which takes place over three days in mid-February founded in 2007, the event was formerly known as the World sufi festival. But it has Expanded its horizons over time to include a broad variety of sacred spiritual music from different parts of the world.

From melodious Lithuanian harp music and the traditional Italian folk songs of Sardinia to andalusian sufi songs of Morocco and Duduk (a type of clarinet) music from Armenia, music from North Africa, Europe, and Asia will be featured. And of course through the local sounds of Rajasthan, India will be given their due time in the spotlight, from Qawwali devotional music to the droning double flute known as the satara.

It may not be the easiest festival for our western readers to get to but in terms of the mesmerizing music and the surrounding scenery, We can guarantee it'll be worth the trip. If you're looking for hotel for the coorld sacred spiritual festival, check out Fairfield by Marriott Jodhpur, The Ajit Bhawan palace or RAAS Jodhpur.

BALANCE IS EVERYTHING

If a man speaks too much, he is talkative.
If he speaks too little, he is reserved.
If he spends too much, he is a spendthrift.
If he spends too little, he is a miser.
If he lags behind, he is laggard.
If he insists too much, he is obstinate.
If he insists too little, he is fickle.
So always keep balance.

BOOKS

I wish to write about the importance of books and the reading habits.

“Books are friends in our pockets
Books are problem solvers
Books are sources of Inspiration
Reading broadens your vision
Reading develops your brain
Reading improves IQ
It improves vocabulary and word power
It improves your personality”

Hence all of us should develop the habit of reading. You will find a path breaking idea in all kinds of books

Remember the words of Bacon:
“Reading maketh a full man”

GRAPHICAL COMICS HOW TO BE HAPPY

When a very recent work is nominated in the popular vote, the judges feel it incumbent upon them to really interrogate it – to ensure that it justifies its presence on the final list. That said ‘Eleanor Davis’ 2015 collection of comics short stories sailed through that process with unanimous, enthusiastic consent. Davis writes and draws surreal, deeply funky comics about people who find themselves in a funk. “Find the stories that help you comprehend the incomprehensible,” one of her characters says “Find the stories that make you stronger”. Her art expresses both raw emotions and the stringent denial of it: She carves out a place that is both deeply felt and introspective. She also avails herself of widely different styles, using colour – or the lack of it – perfectly matched to the narrative mood.

GRAPHICAL COMICS YOUR BLACK FRIEND

Ben Passmore's slim, II – page mini – comic is an open letter, written in the second person, consisting of a litany of gentle admonitions for well – meaning but racially tone – deal white people : “ Your black friend hates that you slide into black presentations thoughtlessly. He feels like you're mocking him, but knows that you are totally unaware of this... your black friend wishes you would play more than Beyonce. There are more black performers than Beyonce and he's worried you don't know that.” That last sentiment is matched to a panel in which a clueless white guy signs along to “Formation”, while his black friend shoots a hilariously weary side eye at the reader. Your Black Friend is by far the shortest comic to make into this list, but there is nothing slight about it. Beneath its sardonic tone lies a truth that is urgent, sincere and deeply affecting.

DIFFERENT CUSTOMS OF THE WORLD

1). Japan - Dress to impress.

On the wedding day, a Japanese bride celebrating a traditional Shinto ceremony wears white from head to toe, including make up, kimono, and a hood called a ‘tsunokakushi’. White denotes her maiden status, and the hood hides the so called “horns of jealousy” she feels towards her Mother – in – laws.

2). Egypt – Don’t ask for salt when at a host’s place.

Looks like Egyptians get offended easily. So, if you are invited over for dinner and want to add more salt to your dish, dare not touch the saltshaker because Egyptians feel it is equivalent to insulting the host.

3). Iceland – Similar to the 12 days of Christmas in the U.S., Iceland celebrates 13. East night before Christmas, Icelandic children are visited by the 13 Yule lands, After placing their shoes by the window, the little ones will head upstairs to bed. In the morning, they’ll either have received candy (if they’re good) or be greeted with shoes full of rotten potatoes if they’re bad.

4). Germany – Polterabend – Break the Dishes and get the newly weds to clean the mess. In this weird pre – wedding German tradition, friends and family of the bride and groom come together and break dishes ! And then the bride and groom have to clean up the mess. This way they get to practice ‘working together in difficult times’.

5). Philippines : Lonly – Dovey.

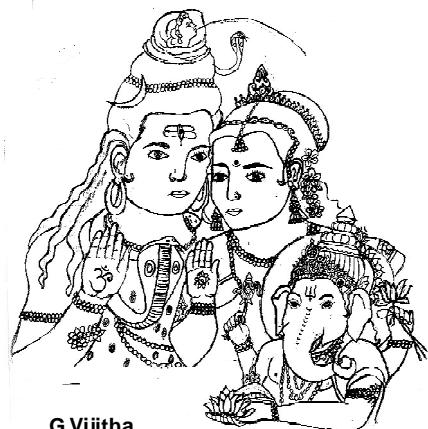

After tying the knot, happy brides and grooms in the philippines release a pair of white doves, a male and a female, into the air. The birds are said to represent a harmonious life together for the newly married couple.

6). China – carrying pregnant wife over buring coal.

In china, it is believed that if the husband carries his pregnant wife over burning coal with bare feet, the wife has an easy delivery. So, physical pain for the husband to ease out the wife’s labour.

TRANSGENDER

Transgender are also the creation of God like the other gender but with a conflict between the assigned and accepted sex. Their gender identity is different from the gender they are thought to be at birth.

Most children typically develop the ability to recognize themselves as girl or boy between ages 18 and 24. Most also categorize their own gender by the age of 3. So the pathetic condition is that they feel that they're in the wrong body to make it clear female soul in a male body or vice Versa. They aren't comfortable in their clothes and they are scared to express their feelings to others. This creates lot of tension and stress. Unintentionally they acquire the attitude of their desired gender so they look different. At a point, unable to withstand any longer, they expose themselves. They take up the clothes and behanious of the desired gender thus bringing a change in their outlook which annoys not only the family but the public too.

This is the situation when they are neglected by their own family and mocked at by the society family and society should understand that they are in the natural way. They don't act or do it purposely. But all fail to understand their feelings. They are humiliated they face lot of struggles and thus abandon their family to find a family of their own in place like mumber. Bangalore, Chennai etc. There they are loved and taken care of by people like themselves.

Transgender are outsider community though they are born in our society. Because in every sector our society identifies people as either male or female. They don't fall into any of these. So their scope for future remains vague.

Transgender are marginalized in the society they cannot mix up freely with other. They live in thus own community traditionally they earn their living by collecting alms and receiving payment for performances at weddings, births and festivals. But at present some involve in business. Enter into jobs and try to mark their place in the society.

The supreme court has given certain directions for the protection of the rights of the transgender by including a third category in document like the election card, passport, Driving license and ration card and for admission in Education institutions, hospitals etc.

Few stalwarts are

Naaz Joshi - India's first transgender beauty queen.

Sathyashri Sharaila - India's first transgender lawyer

Prithika Yashini - India's first transgender police officer

Manobi Bandopadhyay - First college principal

Mumtaz - First transgender to contest elections

Shabnam Mausir - First transgender MLA

Shabi - First transgender Soldier

Jiya Das - First transgender Medical Assistant

It is remarkable to note that each one of these third gender have travelled the toughest path to attain success.

The need of the hour is they should be given freedom to exist on earth as other human beings. Though law and order has favoured them it is in the hearts of the public to let them enjoy it. They shouldn't be laughed at. They should have their own space. They don't expect heaven on earth. Their expectation is priceless love and smile. Let's have a different approach toward them and let them breath fresh air of their own.

SUPERSTITIOUS BELIEF

Eat Grapes at New Year for Luck - Spain

Spaniard think nothing of casually scoffing down a whole punnet of grapes as the clock strike midnight on new year eve, one grape for each gong. It is said that it will bring luck and prosperity for the year ahead.

Don't chew Gum at Night - Turkey

If you're in need of a little after - dinner breath freshener in turkey, whatever you do, go for a mint instead of a stick of chewing gum. It is said that if you chew gum at night you are actually chewing on rotting human flesh.

The Rule of three – Japanese

It is believed that death hunts there at a time. So if you receive news of the death of a loved one. Soon you might hear the news of two more people passing away.

Don't Gossip in Front of the Cat – Denmark

If you are discussing sensitive matters in Denmark, make sure to give the room a quick scan to see that there are no felines present, according to Danish superstitions, you should never discuss anything private in the presence of a cat, because they will gossip about it.

Don't wear red During a storm – the Philippines.

If you are travelling around the Philippines avoid wearing red during a thunder storm, because the colour is said to attract lighting.
